Subject: Microsoft Settlement

As a Macintosh and Linux user, with the exception of using Internet Explorer for OSX, I have read and listened to much of the commentary about the DOJ's settlement with Microsoft and it looks like you guys are selling out. We have seen Microsoft use it's monopoly status and greed to invade every market they enter, let us do the "right thing" and put a hurt on them. I think breaking them up as originally proposed would be a great solution and would then offer some real competition into the computing space.
